Indication and Important Safety Information¹

- Synthroid is indicated as replacement or supplemental therapy for primary, secondary, tertiary, and subclinical hypothyroidism. Synthroid is not indicated for transient hypothyroidism during recovery from subacute thyroiditis.
- Thyroid hormones, including Synthroid, either alone or with other therapeutic agents, should not be used for the treatment of obesity or for weight loss. In euthyroid patients, doses within the range of daily hormonal requirements are ineffective for weight reduction. Larger doses may produce serious or even life-threatening manifestations of toxicity, particularly when given in association with sympathomimetic amines such as those used for their anorectic effects.
- Levothyroxine is contraindicated in patients with untreated subclinical or overt thyrotoxicosis, acute myocardial infarction, uncorrected adrenal insufficiency, or with hypersensitivity to any of the inactive tablet ingredients.
- Levothyroxine should not be used in the treatment of male or female infertility unless this condition is associated with hypothyroidism.
- Use with caution in patients with underlying cardiovascular disease.
- Adverse reactions associated with levothyroxine therapy are primarily those of hyperthyroidism due to therapeutic overdosage. If a patient experiences any unusual symptoms, a healthcare provider should be contacted.
